Commerce Group Will Push Road 29

A special committee meeting of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce, in session Monday night, approved a telegram to be forwarded to the 15th Chambers of Commerce in Orlando, Kissimmee, Okeechobee, Ft. Lauderdale, and Miami, asking them to commence work in lifting the section of Route 29 between Kenansville and junction with highway 30 before members of the Federal State Survey of Florida Roads come to meet in Tampa, Feb. 7.

The "Wire" sent Tuesday, stated that the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce is "vitally interested" in the opening of the road. It plans to have a delegation go to the department, it will mean a greater influx of traffic from the northern part of the state. Travelers now driving through the central part of the state will be obliged to follow one of two courses—either through Okeechobee and on down the west coast or Lake Okeechobee or branching off at Kissimmee and following roads to the east or west coasts. Much potential traffic through Belle Glade is thus lost, it is believed.

BONDS VALIDATED

Final decree validating a "new and series" of waterworks bonds for the town of Belle Glade was filed Saturday in circuit court at West Palm Beach. The bonds are issued against revenue from the waterworks. Details were recorded on the Latham Company contract and a sub-contract item inserted in the Powers & Archibald contract at the request of PWA office in Washington.

FIRST FHIA HOME

Peter Muller, Belle Glade building contractor announced yesterday that the government has underwritten a $10,000 loan to the citizens and taxpayers of the Glade. Herbert D. Beck represented the town in the transaction.

BROODER BURNS

Fires on Monday destroyed over 200 chickens and damaged equipment valued at $100 at the Frank Haines farm on Ritter Island. The fire started in a poultry house in connection with other farming activities and was using lanterns to warn the brooder while his electrical equipment was undergoing repairs. Chickens were supposed to have been raised in the lanterns, starting the fire.

TO ATTEND MEET

This year's Rotary International annual convention will be held in Cleveland, Ohio, from June 19 to 23. It was learned here this week from Rotarian Ralph Freeman, a member of clubs from the Belle Glade and Pahokee organizations, that a number of Rotarians from both cities are expected to attend the event.

Prison Farm Fire Causes $3000 Loss

Fire struck at State Prison Farm No. 2 early Monday morning, partially destroying the roof of the farm's giant syrup mill about three miles north of Belle Glade. The fire was reported at 2 o'clock Monday morning by the volunteer Belle Glade fire department after two hours of work.

The fire completely consumed an adjoining small building and damaged a nearby garage. Shortly after, Mr. O. Linton, a mechanic, and a negro convict, who was lighting the boiler fires, were the only persons in the building when the fire broke out. Both notified Captain W. B. Granger, farm superintendent, who summoned the Belle Glade Fire Department. The blaze was under control in half an hour.

L. E. Williams, farm superintendent, said that the fire was started by crude oil dropping onto smouldering pumice from a leaky joint in the fuel system of the boilers used in manufacturing syrup.

Damages to property was officially estimated at $3,000.

OPERATES AT SALEIRNO

Louis V. Saleirno, Belle Glade, announced this week that he is intensifying his operations in the Salerno Cane Slough this season with the picking of lima beans yielding over 200 bushels per acre in the first crop.

He is now well along with pumping, irrigation and other drainage facilities, is drawing other farming operators. George Thorpe of Everglades, John G. Jones and H. S. Krause, of South Bay, other growers interested in the development of the section.

BULLS ARE SOLD

The sale of seven registered Devon bulls from a year to two years old have been sold to cattlemen in Collier, Lee and Hendry counties by the Everglades Experiment Station. It was announced this week by Ralph Kidder, Livestock manager at the Station. The bulls were sold to the cattlemen for prices ranging from $100 to $150 per head.

WINS AT GOLF

Charles Fawcett, long-time Chicago boy who recently won the 1938 Everglades Match Play title by defeating Jim Fenwick, last Sunday, 1 up in an 18 hole tourney match at the Clewiston Golf Club last Sunday. Fenwick was after sinking a four foot putt on the last hole for his par and a half after having had a birdie 4 after the lead on No. 16 with a birdie 4.

GETS FERTILIZER

Arthur Wells, prominent Everglades farmer, announced this week that he had ordered 30 tons of fertilizer compound known as "compost" for use on his tomato plants. This compound has been used with great success on the coast tomato crops but this will be the first trial on Everglades grown tomatoes, according to Mr. Wells. E. H. Wilson, of Hastings, Fla., is the shipper.

One hundred refugees from the Sudan area who pleaded that they had been put to death if they returned have been allowed to settle in England.

series of dubonnet. Her shoulder corsage was of talisman roses, tube roses, and baby breath. Mrs. Bridges, sister of the bride was her only attendant. She wore a suit of aqua with British tan accessories. Her cake was of roses and was sweet peast.

Mr. Bridges was best man. An informal reception followed the ceremony. The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and centered with a bride's cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. On either end of the table was crystal candelabra with lighted tapers. Roses and sweet peas were used to decorate the room.

Immediately following the reception, the couple left for a brief wedding trip. For traveling, the bride had made arrangements with a bus which would be with beige with matching accessories.

watched a special "Belle Glade Handicap" dog race, the world's premiere of a new popular song was heard. The title was "Belle Glade Bullet." Before leaving the city, Bill had the idea to place a beverage sign on the back of his ancient auto for a consideration of $100. He refused saying that this was a non-commercial venture. He'd already made arrangements to be a member of expositions, fairs and special events throughout this and other nearby states. In fact, the World's Fair at New York has invited him to come along covering the event in Miami, commented that at least a half million people will inquire about Belle Glade during the next few weeks.

Adding to the interest of Bill's East Coast adventure is the fact that he is the president of the unorganized company at Shabring, his former headquarters. Not finding information on the grove from "old timers,"

In Royal Role

Frances Dee—a ranking Hollywood beauty—is Ronald Coleman's leading lady in his latest picture, "If I Were King," the story of the life and loves of Francois Villon, which Paramount will present locally Sunday and Monday at the Prince Theatre.

George Young, Bill's racing opponent, is a brother-in-law to Watson Sprout, Palm Beach county tax collector and a resident of West Palm Beach. Bill took Stetson for a spin during his three-hour visit in West Palm Beach Tuesday. There, too, Bill was delivering copies of the antique "Police Gazette" in his old business suit when he met Willard and Jack Johnson, who were staging theiristic encounter. Jess Willard was the official starter for the gas buggy derby.

At night, WLWV, perhaps the country's most powerful radio station, carried a full-half hour program describing the race. A score of national reporters and newspapermen covered the race itself, while plainclothesmen did skirting above the race course. But through it all, Bill Pierce, although still a little amazed over it all, is just plain "Bill."

He said about Young, his opponent in the buggy race, "He's one of the finest sports I've ever met." It was reported that Young, his opponent in the buggy race, "He's one of the finest sports I've ever met."
